The publication of this History was unavoidably delayed on account of the neglect of some of the families to send their records promptly. Then also the Publishing House required more time to complete their work than was expected. However, the subscribers are to be commended for their patience.

On account of the size of this work as compared with the cost, it was thought necessary to abbreviate and produce less pages, although the same information is given.

DEDICATION

1st. This book is dedicated to the memory of our ancestors who braved the dangers of life incident to the early settlements in the wilds of America, and bequeathed to us the blessing of religious liberty and by their consistent lives set us noble examples.

2d. To our parents, for their timely advice and for implanting the seeds of religious thought in our young minds. May we reverence them as a priceless boon from the hand of the Lord.

3d. To our children, in whom we hope to see the perpetuation of these blessings and privileges. May they cherish their inestimable privileges, and may they hold fast to the piety to which the lives of their ancestors direct them.

4th. May our posterity imitate the priceless principles of their ancestors, and may they be found among the good, the true, and the holy, like those who have preceded them, and may none dare to bring reproach upon the honored name of these dear old ancestors.

INTRODUCTION

Christian Wenger, the progenitor of the Wenger family of our lineage in America, emigrated from Europe to this country in 1727. According to official records, different Wengers came across the ocean to America on different occasions, but that the above mentioned Christian Wenger is the progenitor of our lineage is proved beyond a doubt by the family records copied from his Bible and handed down from one generation to another. This record corresponds with the official records of immigrants arriving at Philadelphia, Pa., during the years from 1700 to 1800.

The traditions of our grandfathers tell us that when the above Christian Wenger from Europe arrived at Philadelphia, then a young man, he made his way up through the country to Lancaster Co., Pa., into the neighborhood of Strasburg, where the Herrs and Brennemans and others settled. Here, it seems, he hired out to a man by the name of Hans (John) Groff. Said Hans Groff's horses strayed away on a certain occasion, and were found at what is now known as Groff's Valley, at the large spring. It seems that Groff became attached to this place and purchased a large tract of land, setting the four corner stones, marking the outlines of the tract he desired. But on surveying he found that he had more land than money, and also found himself involved in debt which he was not able to meet. Therefore, young Wenger, who had some money to invest, in order to help Groff out of his dilemma purchased 300 acres of it along the west side, paying forty dollars for it, in the vicinity now known as Groffenthal, in Earl township, Lancaster Co., Pa., in the church at which place even at present (1900) the aged Joseph Wenger, a descendant of the fifth generation of the same Wenger family, is the presiding minister. Here then we have the site of the old homestead where our progenitor, Christian Wenger, took upon himself the hardships of a pioneer life, and began to carve out of the dense forest a home for himself and family, contenting himself with but few requisites.

Having no stoves, they built a fireplace in one end of the house, upon which an open fire was kept to protect them from the cold of the winter season. The cooking was done by means of kettles hung over the fire, and the baking was done in ovens that were built outside of the house, and which were simply places arched over with stone and clay.

Our grandfathers tell us that as the land was cleared off, the soil was broken up by means of the hoe and the spade, and after sowing the seeds, a heavy brush was drawn over it by hand. We may feel inclined to think that this was a rude way of starting out in life, but by hard labor and strict economy they prospered, and, I believe, enjoyed life in their humble new home at that time as well as if not better than we do in our modern and more commodious homes.

ADDITIONAL INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

By Joseph H. Wenger.

Christian Wenger, our first American parent, came from the Palatinate, Germany, to America, landing at Philadelphia Sept. 30, 1727, and settled in Lancaster Co., Pa.

In the course of years, some of his children emigrated to Canada, Joseph and Henry to Rockingham Co., Va., but the majority remained in Pennsylvania, and later they scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Thus, our progenitor bade farewell to his country, his home, and his relatives in the Old World to exchange them for the realities of the New World, and to secure peace and religious liberty in the forests of America, to battle with things of which he knew nothing until he approached them.

It is very evident, however, that he and his children and grandchildren had to brave the inconveniences of pioneer life in these years, minus the improvements and advantages which came to their posterity in later years. For instance, the plow with wooden mold-boards, the harness made of hickory withes, the wagon wheels made of cut blocks and without tires, the hoe, and the reap-hook—these few things constituted the farming outfit. The log cabin, perhaps constructed without a single nail, and, if it had any windows, perhaps greased paper or skins did service instead of glass. No cook-stoves, no sewing machines, no pianos, no fine clothing, nor ruffles, etc. These people had no opportunity to get such luxuries, neither did they want them.

The men were engaged in clearing the forest and tilling their few small fields, while the women found employment not only in their household duties, but in operating the hemp and flax break, the spinning-wheel and the loom that produced the linsey and the tow linen which clothed the young men and maidens when they appeared at the marriage altar. Their plain, healthful diet consisted of mush and milk for supper, and for a change perhaps milk and mush for breakfast.

All these things occurred long before the dude was born, and before the existence of the tramp, the pick-pocket, the murderer and the robber. Those were years when people ate their bread by the sweat of the brow, and who dare say that they did not enjoy life as well as the people of the present day?

The history of the Wenger family in America has for 175 years been scatteringly preserved by written records and also by personal recollections, and has been handed down from one generation to another from 1727 to the present time. These dear old relics were almost on the verge of being entirely lost, but a few of the enthusiastic relatives who were greatly interested in the Wenger record, faithfully performed the laborious and tedious task of producing this work for the benefit of the present as well as future generations.

The writer from boyhood took great interest in family records and ties of relationship, at which time he had a limited number of the older generations on hand. Some years ago our worthy cousin, Jonas G. Wenger, of Harper, Kansas, but now of Rittman, Ohio, conceived the idea of getting up the genealogy in book form, which awakened me to an untiring zeal in the work, and in which I gave him all the assistance in my power. Later on, through the pressure of other business matters, he resigned in favor of Cousin Martin D. Wenger, of Elkhart, Ind., in whose hands it remained until he died, Sept. 22, 1901. Since that time it has been in my hands for completion, and to prepare it for the press. We are greatly indebted to our co-workers who have so faithfully aided us in the work: namely, Jonas G. Wenger, Rittman, Ohio; Joseph Cressman, Breslau, Ontario, Canada; Joseph W. Dettwiler, Brutus, Michigan; Isaac G. Wenger, Caledonia, Mich.; Benj. G. Wenger, Murrell, Pa., and many others whose names I have not been supplied with; also with the help of our efficient committee, of which Christian G. Wenger, of Caledonia, Mich., is chairman, all of whom put forth their best efforts in bringing this work to completion. The committee consisted of C. G. Wenger, Chairman, Caledonia, Mich.; S. P. Martin, Secretary, Caledonia, Mich.; Zimmerman Wenger, Treasurer, Caledonia, Mich.

In order to accomplish this work, the descendants were hunted up, grandfathers and grandmothers were interviewed, family Bibles, old documents and public records were searched and thousands of letters of inquiry were sent over the United States and Canada.

Now, after several years of persistent labor, the information has finally been obtained, the work goes to press, and we present to posterity and the public the result of our labors.

I would here add that these zealous workers have arrived at old age and soon will lay their armor by, and it will be left for the present, as well as future, generations to say whether or not they appreciate our undertaking in this work. It is to be hoped, however, that the young generations will continue these records by beginning where we left off, so that as it grows in numbers it may also grow in interest.

Christian Wenger, our progenitor, thus left his European home during the religious persecutions of that country, which his peaceful disposition could no longer endure, and in so doing he purchased for us the privileges that we now enjoy. We surely are indebted to him for securing the religious liberty and prosperity that now surround us. He immigrated to this glorious land of America, and endured the inconveniences of pioneer life in the forests, and braved dangers among wild beasts and savage Indians.

Had he not thus purchased our present liberty, no doubt our existence in that foreign country would have been bondage, tyranny, heathenism and martyrdom. We hope that this thought may be indelibly stamped upon the heart of every reader. It seems that through the angelic peace principles and tireless efforts of the noted William Penn of 1681, these conscientious and harmless Germans were sheltered at Germantown, Pa. For instance, the Mennonites, the Dunker Brethren and the Quakers all assembled in the same meetings and worshiped together as one denomination, and from the same standpoint they praised God for their deliverance from tyranny. No denominational backbiting then. Why should there be any now? May the Lord deliver us from any of these abominable sins of the present day. We are commanded to rebuke wickedness in all its various avenues, but God forbids all denominational backbiting.

The writer has traveled over twenty-eight states besides Canada, and he finds the Wengers scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Some of them have immigrated to America since our progenitor came in 1727, whom we are not able to link to our history. Some of the later ones have changed the name to Winger, Wanger, Wingert and Wengerd. But it is positively known that all those who are recorded in this history are direct descendants of Christian Wenger of 1727.

All names have a source, and originate from some occupation, place, or thing, or from some circumstance that has occurred. History informs us that the name Wenger originated from a range of mountains found near Berne, Switzerland, bearing our family name. Between Lauterbrunnen and Grindelwald are found the Wenger "Alps," spoken of as being famous for their scenic views. It is with a great degree of satisfaction that we note this prominent recognition and memorial of our name in the birthplace of those remote ancestors.

The old clock which has been in the possession of the Wengers for a century or two is still in existence. In 1847 my brother-in-law, Jacob Blosser, bought it at my Grandmother Wenger's sale, and in 1854 it came into my possession. In 1892 I presented it to my son, Benjamin Franklin Wenger, who died May 1, 1896, after which it came into the possession of my son, Homer C. Wenger, of South English, Iowa. It is supposed by some that this clock was brought from Europe by Christian Wenger of 1727, but of this there is nothing positive, yet we have evidence that it has been in the possession of the Wengers for over a hundred years. We also have evidence that it is extremely old, from its peculiar construction. In size it is six by eight inches, and the journals and boxes do not seem to be worn a particle. It has been in continual running order until within the last few years, and would now only require cleaning and oiling. I have directed that it be handed down in the Wenger generations as long as the clock and the name exist.

It is to be regretted that the dates of births and particulars of some of the families are omitted, and in other families the grandchildren are not mentioned. It will be seen that in some cases the particulars are limited, but it is by no means the fault of the Secretary, as the greater number of these records in the many different states were secured by mail. In our general course of business we demanded names, dates of births, deaths, marriages and to whom, church denominations, addresses, etc., but in many cases we were not furnished with all these requisites. Therefore we beg pardon in their behalf and hope that no one will accuse us of negligence, as we did not leave one stone unturned under which we thought there was any record. Our work has been a toilsome one, in being compelled to write—and write again and again—and occasionally without response. There are a few, yet very few, families that are not recorded, from the fact that the records could not be obtained. A few mistakes may possibly have occurred in this history; in fact they are unavoidable in any work, especially of this kind, although we have been very careful.

The plan was adopted for each family to be reported by one of its own members. A very few records, however, were so illegibly written as to be difficult to decipher. Now, if a few errors are found, the Secretary is not willing to claim all of them, but charges the greater portion to the readers. Entire omissions are due to failure to respond to our continued calls.

In presenting this work, we do so in a plain, common way, claiming no honor, but only a duty. We present the history of a plain, industrious, thrifty, upright, Christian people. We present the history of an ancestry which we can always justly be proud to honor and respect. And as our ancestors were a Christian and law-abiding people, we sincerely hope that their posterity may think their lives worthy of imitation. May we aspire to everything that is worthy and honorable and good; may we never forsake the virtues of the fathers and bring shame and reproach upon an honored name, but may we look forward and onward and upward, submitting ourselves to the will of the Lord, and finally all have our names recorded in the great book of eternal life, which is of far greater value than to have them in the Wenger record.

With this hope, we present this work to the public.

HISTORICAL

At different periods, and from various causes and motives the ancient Germans were induced to leave their firesides and relatives in their native country to exchange for, they scarcely knew what, in the untried realities of the New World.

Since 1606 millions have left their homes, the dearest spot on earth to them, to which their hearts often returned with sadness for the loved ones who were left behind. Religious persecution and political oppression drove thousands to Pennsylvania, which was then the asylum for the oppressed sons and daughters of the relics of the Reformation, and who were sheltered under the wings of William Penn's administration, who himself had invited the persecuted of every creed and religious opinion.

From 1682 to 1776 Pennsylvania was the central point of immigration from Germany, France and Switzerland. Penn's liberal views and the liberal government of New York towards them induced many to come to this province.

In the period of twenty years from 1682 to 1702 comparatively few Germans arrived; not more than about two hundred families. They located principally at Germantown, and were nearly all of the low German language from Cleves and Westphalia.

Leaving their native country at that time, they providentially escaped the desolation of a French war, which in 1689 laid waste the city of Worms, near which town they had resided. The countries for miles around were ravaged and the flames went up from every market-place, every hamlet, every parish church and every country-seat within the devoted provinces.

The period from 1702 to 1726 marks an era in the German emigration, and between forty and fifty thousand left their native country; the ravages and desolation by the troops of Louis XIV. under Turenne caused the bloody persecution.

Because of persecution and oppression in Switzerland, a large body of defenceless Mennonites fled from the cantons of Zurich, Berne and Schaffhausen about the year 1672 and took up their abode in Alsace on the Rhine. In 1708 they immigrated to Pennsylvania and settled at Germantown and Philadelphia. In 1712 they purchased a large tract of land from Penn's agents in Pequea, then Chester, now Lancaster, county. Among the Indians this Swiss settlement formed a nucleus or centre of a rapidly increasing Swiss, French and German population in the Eden of Pennsylvania. Scarcely had the Mennonites commenced making their lands arable, when they sent a commissioner by the name of Martin Kindig to Germany and Switzerland to induce others to come to Pennsylvania, in which he was successful. There were large accessions to this new colony during the time from 1711 to 1717, and a few years later the influx was so great as to call forth public attention. But finding that these harmless people were a great source of benefit to the country, the objections of those in public office were withdrawn.

In 1719, through the invitations of Martin Kindig, many thousands came and settled about sixty miles west of Philadelphia. About this time some of the Germans, French and Dutch began to penetrate farther west into the wilderness, from thirty to seventy miles, at which places large settlements soon sprang up.

Some Mennonites coming from the Netherlands settled along the Pakihmomink (meaning Cranberry Place).

The Germans were principally farmers, and depended more upon themselves than upon others. They wielded the mattock, the spade, the axe and the maul, and by the power of brawny arms dug up the grubs, removed the timber, and changed the forest into fields of golden grain. They were those of whom Governor Thomas in 1738 said: "This province has for some years been the asylum of the distressed Protestants of the Palatinate and other parts of Germany, and I believe it may truthfully be said that the present flourishing condition of our country is due to the industry and economy of these people."

The Germans, Swiss, French and Dutch formed the greater portion of the first settlements in Pennsylvania.

These were the ancestors of the now toiling millions; the ancestors of the now rich and poor; the ancestors of the honored man and the criminal, the presidents and their adherents, the Christian and the infidel, the millionaire and the pauper, all of whom are more or less miscellaneously mixed up in this world's business matters, and many of whom, especially the ungodly, seldom and perhaps never entertain a single thought of thankfulness to their ancestors who cared for them, much less to the God who created and preserved them.

EXPLANATION

It is just as necessary for the reader to first study these explanations as it is for the student in arithmetic to commit to memory the multiplication table before he can be able to solve its problems.

This work might have been differently arranged and perhaps to a better advantage, but from the fact that the collections of the many different lineages were so scatteringly sent in, in fact some of them coming in at the eleventh hour of the last days.

Directions—First, pay no attention to pages, use numbers instead.

Example:

No. 40. Fourth Generation. 20.

4) John Jones, born Oct. 23, 1850.

Married Minnie Johnston, July 1, 1875. Their children:

1. Henry Jones, born June 2, 1878. No. 75.

2. Minnie Jones, born May 1, 1880. No. 90.

No. 40, as above, means that John Jones is the fortieth family so far recorded.

Fourth generation indicates four steps down from the first generation, therefore Henry and Minnie Jones would be fifth generation.

The figures 20 following the word "generation" refers you back to No. 20, where you find John Jones and his father's family are recorded.

4) means that John Jones is the fourth child of his father's family.

1. means that Henry Jones is the first child, and

2. means that Minnie Jones is the second (see example).

No. 75 following the name of Henry Jones takes you farther on to No. 75, where you find Henry's family recorded, and so on through the entire work.

Where marriages occur, the name of the person who is in direct relation to the Wenger lineage is placed first on record, as also the same in the index.

This history contains the names of 4,243 persons, including 716 bearing the name of Wenger, making a total of 834 families.

GENEALOGY OF THE WENGER FAMILY IN AMERICA.

No. 1. First Generation.

Christian Wenger emigrated from Palatinate*) Europe, to America as a young man, in the ship Molley, from Rotterdam, last from Deal, arriving at Philadelphia Sept. 30, 1727, locating himself in the vicinity now known as Groffenthal, Lancaster Co., Pa. It is not positively known, but is supposed that he was a Mennonite. Afterwards he was married to a German lady by the name of Eve Grabel. Their children were:

1. Magdalena Wenger, born Aug. 26, 1729.
2. Hans (John) Wenger, born Nov. 9, 1731. No. 2.
3. Christian Wenger, born Mar. 23, 1733. No. 27.
4. Mary Wenger, born Nov. 27, 1734.
5. Eve Wenger, born Oct. 10, 1736.
6. Barbara Wenger, born Nov. 11, 1739.
7. Michael Wenger, born Aug. 1, 1741. No. 39.
8. Elisabeth Wenger, born July 4, 1745.
9. Joseph Wenger, born Aug. 8, 1747. No. 3.
10. Abraham Wenger, born Oct. 9, 1749. No. 23.
11. Henry Wenger, born Oct. 25, 1753. No. 4.

Two sons of the above family, Joseph and Henry, emigrated from Lancaster Co., Pa., to Rockingham Co., Va., as near as can be ascertained in about the year 1785. Joseph bought a tract of land containing 500 or 600 acres for seventeen hundred dollars in silver, about six miles north of Harrisonburg, Rockingham Co., a place now called Edom, upon which land he located. Henry settled about four miles south of Harrisonburg.

*) Palatinate, a province in the northwest of France, on the river Rhine, adjoining Baden. In 1815, when the allied army defeated Napoleon, by the treaty of peace signed at Paris, on the 20th of November, it was ceded to Baden. It is now a province in Bavaria, in the German Empire.—See Markam's History of France.

2) Hans Wenger, born Nov. 9, 1731, was married to Anna Sherk. They lived on the farm later owned and occupied by David Zimmerman, at the Conestoga Creek, in Earl township, Lancaster Co., Pa. Their children were:

1. Christian Wenger, born Apr. 3, 1758. No. 28.
2. Anna Wenger, born Nov. 7, 1759.

No. 3. Second Generation. 1.

9) Joseph Wenger, born in Lancaster Co., Pa., Aug. 8, 1747, died at Edom, Rockingham Co., Va., in May 1812; was married to Barbara Hoover, his first wife, Nov. 22, 1765, who was born in 1747, and died in 1792. Dec. 1, 1793, he was married to Anna Hochman, his second wife, who was born in Oct. 1764, and died Nov. 17, 1847.

Joseph Wenger, my grandfather, and his brother Henry (see No. 4) emigrated from the parental roof in Lancaster Co., Pa., in 1785, to about six miles north of Harrisonburg, then called Rocktown, and settled about one mile east of a place now called Edom, Rockingham Co., Va. His brother Henry settled a few miles south of Harrisonburg. Joseph bought between 500 and 600 acres of land which was nearly all in timber, for seventeen hundred dollars in silver, which at that time was the only current funds.

His buildings were placed by a fine spring; and this part of the farm later on became the property of his youngest son Henry, and after having been in the possession of father and son for about a hundred years, it became the property of Henry's daughter, Kate Wenger Miller, and son John D., who own it at the present time.

The above Joseph Wenger built a barn on this homestead some time between 1785 and 1795, which did active service for over a hundred years, when on a February night in 1898 it took fire from some unknown cause and burned to the ground. Horses, cattle, machinery and feed were also burned.

The above mentioned tract of 500 or 600 acres included the farm now owned by Kate Miller and son, that of Jacob Geil, Sr.—the former John H. Beery farm—also the north part of the old Jesse Ralston farm and the east part of the Isaac N. Beery farm.

Grandfather died 90 years ago, and his first wife died 110 years ago. His second wife, my grandmother, died 55 years ago. It is somewhat singular, yet true, that these dear old ancestors never had tombstones or anything bearing inscriptions, placed at their graves, until in the spring of 1902, when the grandchildren and their descendants placed beautiful, but plain, white marble with inscriptions showing the last resting place of these dear old people. They were consistent members of the Mennonite church, and are buried at the old Brenneman cemetery, now known as the Lindale Mennonite church, about a mile north of Edom, Rockingham Co., Va.

Bishop Samuel Coffman came from Greenbrier Co., W. Va., when a young man, to Harrisonburg, Va., and married Frances Weaver. He soon united with the Mennonite church; was placed in the ministry and later in the office of bishop, in which he faithfully served for 42 years. He was a man of great worth to the church and wherever you found him. The Mennonite church greatly increased in membership while under his care. He used gospel precision in church government, and yet he was sufficiently lenient. His death was a great loss, both to the church and out of it. He raised a fine family, a family that cannot easily be excelled anywhere, a family of religious principles which it is to be hoped that his descendants may think worthy to imitate.

Joseph Wenger was born and raised on a farm at Edom, Rockingham Co., Va. His father died when Joseph was at the age of 18 years, which made it necessary for him to settle the estate as administrator, and also have in charge the large farm and the widowed mother with her small children. School privileges in those days were very limited, and the pressure of the above business made it still more difficult for him to procure a school education.

The few schools then in existence were in the German language, which he attended only a short time, not having access to schools in the English language. But he mastered science by employing spare moments, like many other self-made men. He thoroughly mastered English, German, and vocal music, and understood French, Greek and Latin fairly well, having taught school a number of terms during the winter months. During the fall of 1864 he had a severe spell of fever and before he had fully recovered, his barn was burned by the soldiers of the Civil War, and in his attempt to keep the fire from the house and other buildings, his strength was overpowered, from which he never fully recovered, and died on Feb. 14, 1865. In early life he and his wife united with the Mennonite church. Written by his son,

Henry Wenger was the eighteenth and youngest child of his father's (Joseph Wenger's) family by his second wife. He was a small man, and from childhood was of rather delicate health, until he reached the age of nearly eighty years, when he became stout and robust for a man of his age. Therefore, his last four or five years were the best part of his life so far as health was concerned. He was of a sensitive disposition in deciding between right and wrong, always giving credit to things that were right, while things that were wrong he would condemn in the most emphatic way. While he was possessed of great intellectual faculties, yet, like his brothers, his school education was limited. Therefore he also was a self-made man. Unlike any of his many brothers and sisters, he never united with any church.

2) John B. Wenger, born at Edom, Va., Sept. 16, 1820, died suddenly Mar. 31, 1883; was married Aug. 17, 1843, to Anna Shank, who was born Sept. 15, 1824, and died at Harrisonburg, Va.

John B. Wenger was a man of rather delicate health from his childhood to old age, and yet he always had an eye to business, and in a financial way he accumulated a great amount of this world's goods. He always donated liberally to charitable purposes; and poor people were generally supplied from his immense stock of provisions. He raised a small family, whose reputation cannot be doubted by anyone. For 25 or 30 years he was a consistent member of the Mennonite church, after which time he seemed to consider his duty in a different way, and united with the Dunkard Brethren, in which church he was an arduous worker during his life. Their children are:

1. Elisabeth Wenger, born Sept. 1, 1848. No. 117.
2. John A. Wenger, born Aug. 26, 1859. No. 118.
3. David H. Wenger, born July 23, 1862. Died single, Aug. 20, 1890.

3) Elisabeth Wenger, born at Edom, Va., May 21, 1822, still living (1902); was married Nov. 11, 1841, to Jacob Blosser, born Feb. 25, 1816, and died at Macon City, Mo., July 6, 1882.

Elisabeth Wenger Blosser was naturally of a delicate constitution, yet her sphere in life was a useful one. She is still living (Nov. 26, 1902) at the advanced age of over 80 years, with her only son at Atlanta, Georgia. Like her sisters she is of a kind and noble disposition. In early life she and her husband united with the Mennonite church, of which she is still a member. J. H. W.

4) Isaac Wenger, born at Edom, Va., Nov. 22, 1823, was married Mar. 16, 1848, to Lydia Brenneman, born Nov. 10, 1827, died Mar. 4, 1903. P. O. address, Linville, Rockingham Co., Va.

Isaac Wenger, like his brother John B., was an exceptional expert in business management, and yet he was never in a hurry; neither did he ever hurry any of the men in his employ, of whom he always had many—nor did he seem to have any trouble with anyone. When trouble was in the act of arising he would kill it with love and kindness. It was said that he owned about 1,600 acres of land on Linville's Creek in Rockingham Co., Va., and including two large flouring mills, all of which he himself superintended in his easy, good-natured way. He was a staff and benefactor to poor people. He and his wife united with the Mennonite church some time in the forties, and on Nov. 26, 1902, he is still living at a ripe old age. J. H. W.

5) Abraham Wenger, born at Edom, Va., May 31, 1825, died Mar. 21, 1870; was married Apr. 6, 1848, to Sarah Geil, born June 12, 1823, died in Morgan Co., Mo., Feb. 3, 1892. Emigrated from Melrose, Va., to Morgan Co., Mo., in April, 1869.

Abraham Wenger was a stout, hearty, robust man, but death called him shortly after he had passed the milestone of middle age. It seemed that he possessed an inexhaustible supply of ingenuity in a mechanical way. While he had a good home of his own in Missouri, yet right at the entrance of prosperity for him, death called him away, and our great loss was his eternal gain. He raised a fine, prosperous family, who may be considered among the best people on earth. He, like his older brothers, was naturally endowed with kindness and hospitality. He and his wife in early life united with the Mennonite church, and were devoted to Christianity.

Anna Wenger, at the age of 17 years, married John P. Good and lived and died near Harrisonburg, Rockingham county, Virginia. She was an exceptionally kind-hearted woman, always helping the poor and doing good wherever needed. She was also highly esteemed on account of her Christian graces. She was truly a light in the sense of the scriptural injunction, "Let your light shine," etc. She was much concerned about the welfare of others and especially her children. She died suddenly while taking a noonday rest. She and her husband were Mennonites.

7) Jacob Wenger, born at Edom, Rockingham Co., Va., June 4, 1829, died July 22, 1879; was married Mar. 13, 1853, to Hannah Brenneman.

Jacob Wenger was a man of industry, integrity and piety; very exact in business, a strong advocate of peace principles and non-conformity to the world, and a faithful, consistent member of the Mennonite church. When forced into the Confederate army and shouldering the musket, he remarked that by compulsion he would be obedient that far, but assured the officers that he would hurt no one. In his every-day life he practiced the principles that he always advocated, and was true to his convictions regardless of cost. His life was worthy of imitation.

8) Barbara Wenger, born at Edom, Va., June 20, 1831, died May 24, 1892; was married Nov. 30, 1848, to Martin H. Grove, who died ———.

Barbara Wenger, at the age of 17 years, married Martin H. Grove, and lived four miles south of Waynesboro, Augusta Co., Va. She lived to a good old age, and died rather suddenly, her sickness being of about 30 minutes' duration. She was the precise type of her sisters in kindness and innocence as well as all other good qualities. She and her husband united early in life with the Mennonite church.

Mary Wenger Geil is the youngest of five sisters, and in these sisters is a very marked similarity in regard to the good qualities they possessed. Surely the writer is proud of such sisters, and thinks that these good qualities are due to proper parental training, and as the writer is the tenth and youngest of this family, he thinks that we cannot sufficiently thank our parents for the timely advice they gave us during our childhood. Mary and her husband are living at the old homestead where she was raised at Edom, Va. Both are living at present (Nov. 26, 1902), and are consecrated Mennonites.

10) Joseph H. Wenger, who was born at Edom, Rockingham Co., Va., Nov. 15, 1835, and came to South English, Keokuk Co., Iowa, Sept. 13, 1861, was married Apr. 5, 1868, to Elisabeth L. McAfferty, who was born in Wayne Co., O., May 8, 1843, and came to South English, Iowa, in 1855. P. O. address, South English, Keokuk Co., Iowa.

Joseph H. Wenger, the tenth and youngest of his father's family, is a man small of stature, and was of a hearty constitution until he was 19 years of age when a spell of sickness for seven years afflicted him. At the age of 26 he regained his health and energy, and retained it until the declining years of old age, and at the present date, Nov. 26, 1902, is more active at 67 years than the majority of his age. He came to South English, Iowa, on Sept. 13, 1861, and braved the tide of pioneer life as a farmer and stock raiser, in which he was successful, being a close observer and well posted in business. His clear conception and foresight made him useful in his community as an adviser, and was generally selected as such in unraveling difficult problems. He is liberal to the poor and needy, and ready for charitable purposes and especially for those of a religious nature. He emphatically denounces backbiting because of differences in religious views. He is an ardent inquirer and searcher in the deepest depths of history and old-time events and relics, the older the better, and took a very active part in the construction and publication of this Wenger history by searching every possible avenue that would bring any history to the front. At middle age, on Oct. 23, 1881, he and his wife united with the Brethren church. Retiring from business in 1894, they have traveled over the majority of the states and territories in the United States and Canada, and many of them a number of times.

A. W. Beery was born of parents who were considered among the best people in Rockingham Co., Va., as were also his grandparents. They were noted for their pious and religious characteristics in the denomination of the Mennonite church. The writer knew them well, and knows whereof he speaks, that Mr. Beery's parents were among the best people in the Old Dominion. The subject of this sketch was born a natural business man, and became a man of wealth; and while he was shrewd in driving sharp bargains, it was said by his neighbors that he was just in dealing with his fellow-man, and that his word was as good as his bond. However, very different from his parents, brother, sisters and relatives, he never believed the Bible nor in religious principles; neither did he believe in future reward or punishment. Mr. Beery's health had been failing for over a year, when on Feb. 8, 1903, he died at his home in South Pasadena, California, at the age of nearly 74 years. The body was privately cremated a few days later. He leaves a worthy and intelligent wife and two daughters.

AFFIDAVIT.

You will see that my father spells the name Wenger, which we think is the proper German name, but was always hard to pronounce correctly. On coming to Illinois in 1848 we adopted the i, making the name Winger, which is more easily spoken. We have invariably written and spoken the name Winger, and the same was adopted by all the members of the family as they came to Illinois, my father included.

RICHARD WINGER.

Joseph W. Blosser was born at Dayton, Rockingham Co., Va. At the age of fourteen he moved with his parents to Upshur Co., W. Va., in 1858, and at the early age of 21 he graduated in medicine from the Physio Medical College at Cincinnati, Ohio, after which he practiced medicine, first in Elkhart Co., Ind., and then in Jasper Co., Mo. He was married to Margaret E. Stephenson, Oct. 15, 1868. From early childhood he had strong religious inclinations, and in his youth accepted his Savior, whom he continued to serve faithfully during all the years of his medical practice. In 1870 he entered the ministry and from that year until 1881 he either practiced medicine or served as a pastor of a congregation, about half of the time doing double work as physician and minister of the gospel. Being the possessor of rare gifts, the demands upon his services were often beyond his powers of physical endurance. In 1881, while living at Macon City, Mo., he began evangelistic work which he continued almost constantly for fifteen years, during which time he preached and traveled in eighteen states, from New York to Kansas, and south to Florida, holding meetings in churches, gospel tents, halls, court houses, and in the open air. Through these efforts thousands of souls were moved to confess their Savior. In 1895 he moved to Atlanta, Georgia, and engaged in business, however giving a share of his time to the work of the ministry, until the year 1902, when he retired from business, and built a tabernacle with a seating capacity of about 800 people, and became the pastor of the congregation which he had thus gathered together. He is also the inventor of the "Dr. Blosser's Catarrh Cure," an excellent and widely known remedy for catarrh, the manufacture of which forms quite an industry, which is now superintended by his two worthy sons, who employ many helpers.

John F. Good is a man of rare characteristics, and, like his mother, he has inherited that kind and innocent disposition which no one fails to appreciate. He is kind to everyone, and especially do you find the better class of people gather around him to hear his interesting conversation. He is another one of the few men who believe in and practice the golden rule. I am inclined to think that he was never angry, and if he was, he never showed it. Amidst the trials of life, during the long continued sickness and death of his first wife and her mother, and the loss of his property and his home in Virginia, and with a family of children to provide for, yet he braved all these with a Christian fortitude. He moved with his four young sons to South English, Iowa, on March 23, 1893, in very limited financial circumstances, but through the aid of advice, industry, and the help of his young sons and his second wife, he now has a fine home of 160 acres. His reputation and that of his sons is equal to the very best in the community.

3) Solomon B. Wenger, born near Greenmount, Va., Jan. 7, 1857 (Mennonite); was married in Virginia in May 1882 to Sallie J. Beery (Dunkard), his first wife, who was born in Virginia Aug. 30, 1855, and died in Iowa Sept. 30, 1883. P. O. address, South English, Keokuk Co., Ia. No children.

Solomon B. Wenger moved to South English, Iowa, in 1881 and was the first Mennonite that settled in the above vicinity. According to Matt. 5:16 he let his light shine, and soon others followed, which resulted in an organization, with a church house and a resident minister. He is a consecrated Christian and a model man. His characteristics are doing as he would wish to be done by, and contending for things that are right in the sight of God, regardless of cost. It is said that a person cannot be too honest, which is an absolute fact, but yet he can be too liberal. The subject of this sketch is rather inclined to discommode himself in order to accommodate others. Charity should sometimes begin at home. The golden rule is his theory and he strictly practices it.

J. H. W.

8) Amos D. Wenger, born near Greenmount, Rockingham Co., Va., Nov. 25, 1867, was married July 1, 1897, to Mary Hostetter, of Millersville, Lancaster Co., Pa., who died July 14, 1898. No children.

The above Amos D. Wenger is a minister in the Mennonite church, and in March 1900 completed a tour around the world. P. O. address, Millersville, Lancaster Co., Pa. Sept. 27, 1900, he married Anna May Lehman, his second wife, who was born at Millersville, Pa., May 19, 1878.

Amos D. Wenger was born Nov. 26, 1867, on a farm near Greenmount, Rockingham Co., Va. His education was received in the country schools near his home, and at the Missouri State Normal at Warrensburg, from which institution he graduated in 1894. Afterwards he took a post-graduate course at Penn College, a Quaker school at Oskaloosa, Iowa. From early childhood he was under deep religious convictions, both as to the salvation of his own soul, and as to God's call to him to devote his life to the preaching of the gospel. Being of a quiet and reserved disposition he kept these convictions to himself, and it was not until he was 22 years of age that he publicly confessed Christ, was baptized and received into the Mennonite church by Bishop John M. Shenk in Allen Co., Ohio. On the 11th of November, 1894, he was ordained to the ministry by the congregation at Bethel, near Garden City, Mo., Bishop Daniel Kauffman officiating. From this time he devoted himself earnestly to the work of the ministry, becoming an evangelist, and preaching in several different states, but principally in Pennsylvania. He preached not only with fluency, but also with deep earnestness and great effect. In July, 1897, he was happily married to Mary H. Hostetter, of Millersville, Pa., and a year later sustained a great bereavement in the death of his wife. On Jan. 1, 1899, he sailed from New York upon a tour around the world, going first to England, thence to several European countries, spent six months in Bible lands, thence went to India, China and Japan, and after fourteen months of travel, returned to his native land in March, 1900. Seven months later he was married to Anna May Lehman, of Millersville, Pa. He has written a book of travels, entitled, "Six Months in Bible Lands; Around the World in Fourteen Months." The writer of this sketch considers this one of the most instructive and inspiring narratives of Oriental travel that has ever been written. It is full of thrilling incidents. Unarmed he traveled in the most dangerous localities, among bloodthirsty and treacherous brigands, and, looking only to his heavenly Father for protection, he escaped all harm. Within six months of publication of this book, three thousand copies had been sold.

Dr. J. W. BLOSSER, Atlanta, Ga.

I would here add a compliment in favor of the above mentioned book. I would read a chapter, and then spend hours in meditation on the different interesting Bible subjects which were brought forth in such an interesting spiritual way. The spiritual applications are excellent. I find but one objection to the above descriptions, and that is they are not long enough to fully satisfy the craving desire of the reader for more. After having finished reading the book, I in solemn meditation wished for more. Therefore the only remedy is to read, and read again. The History of Bible lands with the spiritual applications is a feast to soul and body. To some it may be of no interest, but to the Christian and Bible reader its value cannot be computed. It is not in the power of all to visit the Old World, besides it is a tiresome, dangerous and costly trip, but in reading the history you can almost imagine that you are seeing the real thing.

He then settled in the woods where in a few years he had a fine farm of 160 acres well improved. Christian G. Wenger was at the age of five years when his father was removed by the death angel, but he had the benefit of a kind, consoling mother. He lived for a number of years with an uncle, with whom he moved to Kent Co., Mich., in April, 1864, where he continued to work on the farm. At the age of 21 he worked at the carpenter trade for four years, and at 25 was married. They have eleven children, a family unbroken by death. At the age of 21 he secured a parcel of timber land, which after his marriage he began to clear and improve. But not satisfied alone with this temporal home, they sought for a heavenly home and united with the Old Mennonite church. He has served as superintendent of their Sunday-school for 20 years. They have made their home attractive for their children, hence they nearly all cluster around the old homestead.

Cousin Martin D. Wenger, my efficient co-worker in this Wenger record, was compiler of this work up to the time of his death, after which time the manuscripts were placed in the writer's hands for completion. I never had any personal acquaintance with Cousin Martin, but in our work on the Wenger record we had a continual pleasant correspondence, so that in a measure we were well acquainted, and in conclusion would say that in his death we have suffered a great loss.

H. M. Winger was a man of thorough education, and was possessed of wonderful ingenuity and mechanical skill. He had the capacity for almost any occupation that presented itself. During the first half of his life he taught school, and I am indebted to him for the instructions given me in my young days which have done me great service all through life. Henry M. was raised in Ohio, but in about 1847 he returned to Edom, Va., the place of his nativity; married and lived there until during the Civil war. He entertained strong Union sentiments, for which he was for a long time confined in that loathsome Libby Prison at Richmond, Va. He was of a pleasant disposition, and raised a fine family of educated, intelligent children. He died suddenly of apoplexy at Augusta, Butler Co., Kansas, and was buried at Burlington, Coffey Co., same state.
